KINGS COUNTY DID WELL.

BROOKLYN HELPED TO CARRY THE STATE. THE POWER OF THE RUM ELEMENT FELT. HOW EVER, IN ITS HEARTY SUPPORT OF HILL-WHAT THE VARIOUS CAN-DIDATES RECEIVED.

The results of the election in Brooklyn as they ap-sared in revised figures yesterday show that the decision at the polls was set forth with almost entire accuracy in the figures published by The Tribune early yesterday. The boastful prediction of "Boss" Meughlin that his balliwick would give Cleveland 23,000 plurality proved as baseless as every formed observer supposed it would do, and his figures were almost twice too large. The confident assumption of the National Democratic Committee that Kings would furnish 20,000 of the figures they claimed for the State was also founded upon the sand. While the Republicans did not quite succeed in keeping the Democratic plurality in the county below 10,000, they came near enough to it to make good the claim that Kings County carried the State for Harrison and Morton. The vote for them was 70,029, an in-crease of 18,749 over Blaine's vote in 1884. Cleveland's vote shows an increase of 16,215. The Prodbition vote shows a falling off, Fisk only getting 902 hibition vote shows a failing oit, Fisk oil, against 1,361 for St. John in 1884. The Democratic plurality in the county is reduced from 15,748 to 12,037, a failing oil of 3,711. To this result the change in Gravesend from a Democratic majority of 372 in 1884 to a Republican majority of 436, due to the efforts of John Y. McKane. contributes con-lite as well for Warner Miller as they did for General Harrison, despite a large accession of former Prohibition votes. The result shows 13,568 plurality for Hill, an increase of 4,089 over what he had three ears ago. The efforts of the liquor-dealers with unlimited money contributed to this result.

contest for Congress in Kings County the IIId District gave William C. Wallace the handsome Republican plurality of about 3,000, showing that ection was ably supported, despite the efforts of Free Traders to defeat him. In the other districts ocratic pluralities are reduced.

The Republicans, according to the returns, yesterday, lose the VIIth and XIIth Assembly Districts. In the former Assembly man Reitz was defeated by the slight number of seven votes, and the official canvass may show his election. The representation of the county stands two Republi-

The results on the county and city tickets show the defeat of all the Republican candidates except pos-sibly Captain Kaiser for County Clerk. He claimed his election by 1,500 yesterday, but his opponent, John Cottier, claimed 700 plurality. The Democratic plurality is about the normal figures on the city The following tables give a full comparison of the

A REPUBLICAN CLUB ON THE MARCH. THE BIG RINK WOULD NOT HOLD THEM WHEN

THEY KNEW THE RESULT. Young Republican Club of Brooklyn, havin fought a good fight and having won a magnificent victory in Kings County, felt themselves justified in celebrating the result in good style on Tuesday night, or rather yesterday morning. They had made their arrangements to have the returns read at the Clermont Avenue rink, which was opened at about 9 o'clock. In a short time the spacious rink was filled to overflowing, fully 5,000 enthusiastic Republicans, including a large number of women, turning out to hear the latest news. As the re-turns became more and more favorable the enthusiasm grew so strong that when, at half-past twelve, the news came making it sufficiently certain that victory was secured to justify celebration, it burst all bounds and for a space of twelve minutes pandemonium reigned supreme in the rink. Drums were beat, belis rung, horns blown, flags and banners waved, and every one shouted himself hoarse in a perfect frenzy

Almost at once it was determined to "paint the town a brilliant carmine," and at half-past one, the club, to the number of about 2,000, formed in line and started on a march downtown. marched first to the house of A. W. Tenney, in Washington Park. They stopped here and demanded a Mr. Tenney, who was marching in the ranks, mounted his steps and said that he had done too much shouting to make a speech, but proposed three cheers and said he would join them in the march downtown. They then continued their march, going downtown. They then continued their march, going down through Montague-st., past the headquarters of the Republican Campaign Committee, and through Willow-st. to the house of their president, William H. Williams, thence to Fulton-st. and disbanded. Among the prominent Republicans who marched in the line were: W. H. Williams, president; R. H. Thomas, vice-president, and James S. Case, secretary of the club; A. W. Tenney, Judge S. D. Morris, W. C. Wallace, the successful candidate for Congress in the IIId District, Charles A. Moore, Frank Squires, J. D. Farrington, Charles Dennis, Fred. Bassett and Nathaniel T. Hoxie.

BROOKLYN REPUBLICANS REJOICE.

Jubilant Republicans were to be found everywhere Brooklyn yesterday, and their enthusiasm vented itself in various ways. Last evening a number of the members of the Federal Republican Club and the First Ward organizations paraded on the Heights. At a meeting of representatives of the uniformed clubs of Kings County, held at No. 330 Fulton-st. last evening, it was decided to hold a general parade in honor of the election of Harrison and Morton on Saturday evening. The M. J. Dady Legion was organized to go to Washington and witness the inauguration of Harrison. The cry of fraud in Kings County, which was put forth in behalf of the National Democratic Committee, was ridiculed in krooklyn last evening. Will-lam H. Murtha, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, last evening denied any knowledge of the matter and any responsibility for the statement.

READING THE BULLETINS.

FRANTIC JOY OVER THE GOOD NEWS. THE MIGHTY CROWD OF ENTHUSIASTIC REPUB-LICANS THAT WAITED FOR THE EARLIEST RETURNS BEFORE "THE TRIBUNE" BUILDING.

The scenes before the newspaper bulletin boards on Tuesday night were a magnificent proof of the character and greatness of the American people For months the result of the election had seemed to hang in the balance. Every nerve had been strained on both sides. There had been advances and counter-advances, marvellous charges met with an unyielding stand, and in all a determined, fierce, stubborn struggle for supremacy. night the brilliancy of the hard-fought campaign was the time forgotten. The last gun had been fired. the last blow struck, and now the people of both sides sTood waiting for the smoke to lift and to disclose the wavering beam just before it turned.

The eager eyes of a nation watched for the scale and as they ed they saw it finally shiver for instant, and then turning, gradually settle down. From the throats of the one party there poured out a fleod or exulting, triumphant spiring shouts. They had won the fight. The other party hesitated a moment, answered the victorious cries of their opponents with one of prageous defiance, and turned from the spot, defeated, but submissive to the mighty will of a Repub-

one. It was a mighty throng, almost a people. From the walls of the building it extended far out into City Hall Park, as far as the bulletin board could be seen. It surged and throbbed with the impulse of excited anxious thousands. It sent forth magnificent shouts, that were caught up by those who were far away. Shouts that were so mighty, so harmonious, that they seemed to echo and re-echo between the walls of the huge baildings around with a terrific crash. HOW THEIR EAGERNESS WAS EXPRESSED.

Men who had seen many a political campaign said that seldom had they seen such intense cagerness, such a hanging on every word that flashed upon the white patch of canvas. Men who had fought for their party over and over again stood thoughtful and anxious. First voters, strong in the eagerness and confidence of youth, asked them their opinions and shouted their delight at every favorable sign. From down the street came the roars of the crowds watching the returns there. Back went the response of Re-publican voices, overwhelming in their fulness. Hours passed and the crowd became no smaller. They shouted and sang on, singing, singing, the measures carried in swelling, rolling tones, only ceasing the song to send up a fierce greeting to a favorable bulletin, and then taking up the measure again where it had been dropped. There were waving flags and hats and handkerchiefs. There were campaign rattles whirling in nervous hands, snapping and crackling. There were all the means expressing unbounded en-thusiasm and deep-felt interest. But there was nothing that equalled the outbursts of voices from heaving lungs. Night had fallen and the hours had heaving lungs. Night had fallen and passed quickly, and still no certainty.

LONG FACES ON THE DEMOCRATS. Then there came a lull before Democratic bulletinboards. Faces darkened and eyebrows came nearer together. As one after another of the Republican States sent its messages to the tireless watchers, they became wild in their delight. The click of the busy telegrapher's instrument was telling unmistakable news now. The great State of New-York was sending news now. The great State of New-York was sending a mighty majority down to the Harlem that would sweep all before it. And the shouts grew more fierce, and men became more frenzied. They pounded the ground with their feet and waved their arms and shouted till their breath was gone and they could scarcely stand. They would not stop. There had come a dead hush now where Democrats had cheered before. Their butiefins were deserted, their words were a mockery. But the one shout that would not be stilled was more mighty than before. Caught up by men from the Battery to Harlem Bridge it rolled the length of the city. It want back and forth, always the same, telling of the result of the fight, that the day was won, that Harrison was elected.

JUBILATION IN THE STREETS.

CROWDS CONTINUE TO WATCH THE BULLETIN BOARDS FOR THE LATEST RETURNS.

The Tribune's bulletin board was watched by ar ager, excited crowd all day yesterday. No doubt of the election of Harrison and Morton was at any time manifested by the Republicans who were scanning the returns, but all were anxious to ascertain the exact figures, so that they might demonstrate with mathematical accuracy the glorious victory that had been obtained. Joy was depicted upon the countenances of those who have for months been waging the great battle for the protection of American in dustries, while the woe-begone faces of the Demo-crats and Mugwumps were indicative of the intense gloom and despondency which filled their hearts.

This was not entirely due by any means to love for the "man of destiny," nor to devotion to the policy of free trade, but rather to the fact that they had embarked in a forlorn cause and had met what had been evident to all thinking men, inevitable defeat. been evident to all timbling men, hevirable defeat.
Loud and bitter were the curses and maledictions heaped upon "his lordship." Sackville, upon the management of the Democratic party and the leaders who had compelled the Democrats to embody in their platform a policy in favor of England, and one certen to be reconsisted by the tain to be repudiated by the American people. The street fakirs did a thriving business, and large numbers of people were fairly plastered over with Re-

After consigning Grover to the "cold, cold ground" and cheering wildly for The Tribune and its zealous upholding of the cardinal Republican principles and the achievement of the great victory. ud calls were made for a speech from some repre sentative of The Tribune. Finally William II. Mc-Elroy responded in a happy style and was long and ple of New-York on the decision which had been rendered at the polls in favor of the American system of protection, and predicted an era of continued pros-pettly under a Republican Administration. After a few more "tigers" and waving of brooms the solid column moved out and proceeded along Park Row, challenging general attention by their songs and shouts of triumph.

seemed to be one of satisfaction about the result of the election, although there were a number of anxious watchers at the various bulletin boards in the earlier part of the day, who waited in vain for the announce-ment of Democratic victory, and turned sadly away to reflect at leisure upon the death-blow to free tradhopes and aspirations. The persistency with which followers of the lost cause clung to the for lorn hope was well illustrated in the case of a Democrat who about noon declared that the result would we see whether Illinois is going not be known until " Republican or not." Half an hour later a dispatch was published in a Democratic newspaper and a Republican majority of 20,000 in that State. A few small crowds were collected in front of other bulletin boards in Park Row, but large numbers of were to be found only in front of The Tribune Building.

NEW-YORK TIMES BULLETIN-NOV. 7.

THEY ALL WANTED THE TRIBUNE. EXTRAORDINARY SALE OF THE WEDNESDAY

EDITION, GIVING THE ELECTION RETURNS. Long before The Tribune's presses began to revolve vesterday morning, hundreds of eager inquirers entered the counting room in quest of a paper. They were asked to wait until 3 a. m., at which hour single copies were sold over the counter in such quantities that a company of men was employed to bring fresh supplies from the press-room.

It seemed to be a custom among enthusiastic Republicans who had been reading The Tribune bulletins to invite half a dozen friends or so into the counting-room and treat them to a copy of the paper, announcing that Harrison and Morton had won the victory. For hours the counting-room was packed with people cager to purchase a Tribune. The street outside the office was lined with men, busily scanning the reports of the returns in The Tribune. The Tribune's press-room was a scene of unprece-dented activity. The great printing machines were run at their highest speed, each press turning out 24,000 copies an hour. The delivery room was packed by a struggling mass of newsmen eager for supplies, tranging from ten to 10,000 copies each. Special de-livery wagons to deliver the mail of nearly 100,000 copies to the early trains stood at the mail-room doorway, and swift horses drew many heavy loads to the outgoing trains. Thus, within several hours, as many hundred thousand Tribunes were placed in the hands of readers throughout the country.

LAST MEETING OF THE DRY.GOODS CLUB. CONGRATULATED ON THEIR GOOD AND SUCCESS-FUL WORK IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Wholesale Dry-Goods Club held its final noonday meeting yesterday at No. 324 Broadway. This club has shown throughout the whole campaign the most active and energetic work and unbounded en-thusiasm. It has only been necessary to get a few of them together to have them pitch into their singing, cheering and speaking with a hearty will. The scene that took place at their meeting yesterday was a striking example of the profound interest the issues of the campaign have inspired in Republicans. The crowd that filled every inch of standing room in the club-room and spread out over the sidewalk and into the street simply went wild with joy at the success of the National ticket. The floor trembled and shook under their pounding The crowd made up of the thousands who The floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the thousands who I the floor trembled and shook under their pounding the crowd made up of the crowd made up prolonged, wild.

William B. Fuller, who presided, in bidding them farewell, thanked them for their loyalty. He com-plimented them upon the brilliant part they had played in the great Republican perade and congratulated them upon their zealous and effective work on election day. John F. Plummer urged them to return to their business, to enjoy the blessings which they might continue to have, now that the principle of protection, for which they had so strongly fought, was to be retained. He asked them not to disband, but to hold together for future work in the same cause for which they had just helped to win a great victory. They should make themselves a new factor in politics, business men in politics, not desirous for public office, but willing and glad to give the office to others, while they exercised a healthful influence on public affairs. They should make themselves familiar with affairs in the wards of this city and in the towns and counties of the State. After expressing his pleasure at being honored with the presidency of their organization, Mr. Plummer read the following, written by a member of the club:

RING OUT, WILD BELLS.
Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky.
The victory's won for truth and right,
Free Trade is dying in the night; Ring out, wild bells, and let it die, Ring out the old, ring in the new, Ring happy bells, ring loud, ring low, Old Grover's going-let him go; Ring out the false, ring in the true, Ring out the faise, ring in the true, ling Harrison in and Mortan too. Ring out the craves, dving cause, And monstrous forms of party strice, Ring in the nobler modes of life, With sweeter manuers, purer laws; Ring out the want, the crime, the sin, That rum entails upon our times, Ring out, ring out, base fraud's "combines,". Ring Harrison and Morton in. Ring out remembered wars of old. Ring in advancing years of peace; Ring in advancing years of peace? Ring in the valiant men and free, The larger heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of our land, Ben Harrison our Chief shall be.

IRISH AMERICAN LEADERS JUBILANT. PROUD OF THE SUCCESS OF THEIR EFFORTS TO HOLD THE BLAINE VOTE FOR HARRISON.

There was no body of citizens more supremely happy yesterday than those Irish-Americans who voted for Harrison, but who formerly voted the Demoeratic ticket. The question which was so frequently asked before election day, and which the Democrats were wont to answer in the affirmative: "Will the Irish-American Democrats who voted for Blaine go back to the Democratic party?" was answered them with an emphatic negative. They point to the enormous vote of almost 106,000 which the triumphant Republican leader obtained in this city in proof of their position.

Captain P. H. McNamee, president of the Irish-

American Anti-Free-Trade League, had to escape from the headquarters of that organization, at No. 141 Eighth-st., in order to avoid the crowds that were pressing in upon him from all sides, and some even from among the ranks of his political opponents, con gratulating him upon the result of his hard labors night and day during the last three months. Colonel Dudley, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, shook him warmly by the hand and thanked him heartily for the good work he had done, and other members of the National Committee did the same. Speaking to a reporter of The Tribune yesterday,

Captain McNamee said: "I am particularly anxious to hear what the English newspapers will say. I presume they will curse us. done our duty, but with such demanciations we will be doubly assured of that fact. Among the Irish Americans this victory will have a salutary effect. The National election is over and the character of the National Administration for four years from March 4, 1889, is determined. London, at the opening at the Steck Exchange this morning promptly responded to the result of the election by being a liberal buyer of nearly all the active stocks. First prices ranged from 1-2 to 3-4 per cent higher than Monday's closing figures. When London orders were executed there was some hesitation and a decline in prices, but not to the figures of Monday's closing. The "bears" eyidently were not pleased with the situation. The morning's stock loan market failed to reflect the reduction in the "short" interest, which Friday's and Saturday's operations seemed to indicate. So the idea was promulgated that the present Administration, being defeated, would cease to purchase bonds and do what it could to make things unpleasant in the money market during the remaining four months of its existence. The point is not well taken. Of the day's stock market it is only necessary to say that it was strong all the way through at better than Monday's figures, and that it was dull after London closed. From the noon decline there were partial recoveries. March 4, 1889, is determined. London, at the
